OWL CAMP PROVIDES SUMMER FUN FOR BLIND & VISUALLY IMPAIRED CHILDREN

Oklahoma City, OK (June 26, 2017) – NewView Oklahoma believes that every child deserves to have a “summer camp” experience. OWL Camp, or Oklahomans Without Limits, was created in 2000 for children who are blind or visually impaired. This summer, campers ages 8 to 14 years old, will gather in Oklahoma City from July 17th through the 21st for a super-heroes-themed week of fun at the University of Central Oklahoma.

OWL Camp activities are carefully planned and designed to encourage collaboration, improve confidence, self-esteem, and independence, and challenge societal and self-imposed limits. Campers and their sighted “buddies” will partake in activities such as trips to museums, aquatic facilities, a newspaper party, and the movies.

“We build our activities on reaching our limits through trying new things and showing off those activities we are best at,” said Cathy Holden, senior vice president of rehabilitation and clinical operations at NewView Oklahoma.

OWL Camp is structured specifically to engage sighted children with those with vision loss. Each blind or visually impaired camper is partnered with a sighted buddy. The goal is to provide lasting effects by allowing the sighted buddies to understand that people with vision loss are just like them. Campers can do all the same things the sighted youth do with very little adaptation. The goal is for buddies to go back to their peers and share their experience to eliminate the stigma that is too often associated with kids with disabilities.

“The kids have such a great time being together and getting to do activities they thought they might never do because of their vision impairment,” Holden said. “For many, this camp is a time to forget about their limitations and explore a world built around their abilities.”
